2007 INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE

Register now!

The only conference dedicated to the needs and interests of both clinicians and survivors

Our theme, Relief, Recovery and Restoration, carries forward our mission to provide opportunities for personal and professional growth and for networking in addition to the dissemination of new knowledge. There will be panels and presentations open only to therapists or to survivors, but most will be open to all attendees. You will hear first-hand input from male survivors as well as discussions with psychotherapists, social service professionals, lawyers, law enforcement personnel, legal advocates, researchers, and educators.

No where else would there be such a mixed, collaborative group.

Almost the entire mid-town campus of John Jay College will be dedicated to the conference, including the use of its beautiful theater where on Friday night, October 26, Martin Moran will perform his Obie-winning play, "The Tricky Part," based on his own childhood abuse experience.

w/Murray David Schane, MD. President MaleSurvivor
